Introduction

To assist with the development of an update to Town of Denton's Comprehensive Plan, the Planning Commission decided to undertake a Denton citizens' survey. The survey was patterned after one used by the Town of Mount Airy, Maryland and modified by the Planning Commission and Planning Staff as deemed appropriate to best measure areas of interest specific to the Town of Denton. The Planning Commission and Planning Staff believe the resultant survey created a practical starting point from which to accurately assess the public opinion about community problems and possible solutions.

To insure a reasonable response rate, the survey was sent to 100% of the property owners with a pre-paid postage return envelope. 1,273 surveys were sent and 476 fully completed surveys were returned (incomplete survey forms were excluded). The survey return rate was 37.5%, which by all standards is an exceptional return rate and insures a statistically valid representation of responders' views. Subsequent to the compilation of the data contained herein, some additional surveys trickled in but were not counted (the results were unaffected).

It was recognized that not all Denton residents would receive the survey due to mailing only to property owners (the Planning Staff was unable to obtain any reliable source of information to create a mailing list of all residents). Therefore, the reader is reminded that the results analysis excludes residents who rent.

To assist with survey segmentation analysis, the survey questionnaires were color-coded by zoning district. This enabled the ability to ascertain potential differences in responses based upon the zone in which the respondents lived.

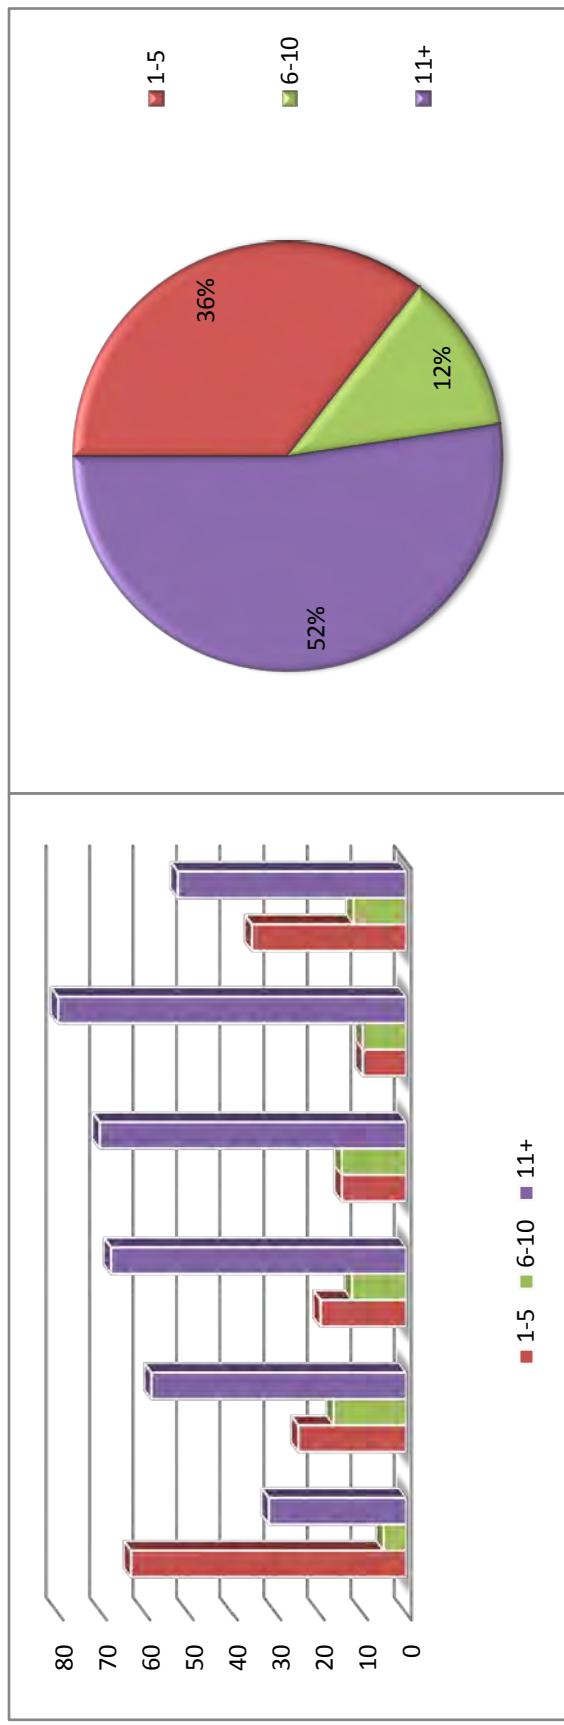

Survey questions varied in order to acquire valuable and necessary insight (refer to blank survey form in the last tab (pink) of this document). Some questions were designed to gather demographic data such as age, ages in household, and commuter information, etc. Other questions allowed one choice from many with the option to comment. Still other questions asked for the top three choices among many, again allowing for comment. Other questions required a yes/no/undecided answer with comment. Lastly, the survey allowed for general comments not specific to any question.

This introduction does not evaluate the results of the survey. The response results are provided in tabular and graphical formats plus any verbatim responses in second tab (red). Responses by zone with Planning Staff observations are provided in the third tab (white). General verbatim comments are in the fourth tab (green).

The survey results will be assimilated and incorporated into the vision, goals, objectives, policies, standards and principals of the next Comprehensive Plan document.
